Alliance for Leadership & Interconnection

Cultivating ecological stewardship and awareness of the relationships among human, built and natural environments

Green Schools Success

Pleasant Ridge
Montessori

“Cincinnati Public Schools is among the top school districts in the nation with LEED registered schools”

Cincinnati Enquirer, December 26, 2010

“Ohio has the most ambitious and aggressive initiatives in place to rebuild all their schools green”

Rachel Gutter, Director, Center for Green Schools, US Green Building Council

Students learn better in green schools.

Test scores go up while absenteeism among students, teachers and administrators goes down. Add cost savings to the benefit of doing less harm to the natural environment, and ecologically friendly schools are the ultimate greening success.

This is the message that Alliance for Leadership and Interconnection (ALI) embodies.

Notes:

Visit the GREENEST ZOO in the Country!

SAY WATT?

The Melink Solar Canopy (left, above) is the largest publicly accessible urban solar array in the country. The 1.56mW canopy will generate about 20% of the Zoo's energy needs.

The 1.2kW wind turbine (below) helps meet approximately 20-30% of the power demands for the Zoo's Membership and Ticketing Building.

The Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden is making great efforts to conserve natural resources, manage solid waste and storm water runoff, and grow a greener culture through education and outreach. As the first zoo in the nation to publicly commit to building all new projects to LEED standards, the Cincinnati Zoo recognizes the majority of an organization's carbon footprint lies in its buildings and utilities. Known as the 'Greenest Zoo in the Country', the Cincinnati Zoo boasts more LEED projects than any other zoo in the country.

LEED Platinum Visitors Center

Ohio's first LEED platinum-certified building demonstrates the U.S. Department of Energy's commitment to sustainability and the environment. The Visitors Center at the Fernald Preserve includes a ground-source heat pump system for heating and cooling, a zero-discharge biowetland that treats 100 percent of the wastewater, and a green building education program. The building offers a free Community Meeting Room; an exhibit area that depicts the diverse history of Fernald, from 12,000 BC to the current legacy management mission; and an interactive renewable energy display that highlights the use of solar power at the Visitors Center and the site.

As a community asset, the Fernald Preserve will foster wildlife habitat and provide educational opportunities through environmental stewardship.

E-mail fernald@lm.doe.gov or call (513) 648-6000 for more information on the Fernald Preserve.

LOHRE & ASSOC., INC. MARKETING COMMUNICATIONS, GREEN CINCINNATI® EDUCATION ADVOCACY

From Frank Lloyd Wright to Over-The-Rhine

Ad executive's journey from a FLW home to the 1st LEED® Platinum CI 2009 marketing firm.

PROJECT BACKGROUND

We became interested in Green building through our research in the Organic Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright. In 2003, my wife Janet and I purchase a home designed by Wright. In 2005, we started using the home for Green Building seminars. I joined the local USGBC Chapter and volunteered for the Communications Committee since my day job was running an advertising agency. Realizing that I would need to study more about LEED to help the Chapter, I registered my office and passed the LEED AP exam April 2008. We branded our Green building marketing efforts "Green Cincinnati Education Advocacy" and offer LEED AP services, tours, classes and technical marketing materials. This project is our way to walk-the-walk and talk-the-talk.

IMPORTANT HISTORICALLY AND EDUCATIONALLY

Locating the office in the inner city represents the best in historical re-use and renewal. Cincinnati was built in the mid 1800s as an efficient residential and industrial center before the advent of a fossil fuel culture. A renaissance is taking place to restore it to a walkable, sustainable community demonstrating Cincinnati's LEED Certification requirements for city buildings and schools, and tax incentives for commercial and residential development.

STRATEGIES AND RESULTS

Since the building was renovated in 2004 by Martha Schickel Dorff, Architect/Principal of Schickel Design, and used concrete for the parking lot, we got the heat island reduction credit. We also planted a tree, drought-tolerant flowers, sedum with 50% open-area pavers, and installed a rain barrel. No problem with the community connectivity or public transportation. And riding a bike to work is easy because the path is along the old canal route. Over-The-Rhine was a term given to the city north of the canal.

One of the challenges was getting the 30% water reduction credit for 6 points. We modified our single-flush toilet with a dual flush attachment and added a hand washing basin over the water closet. When your toilet is something you show off to everyone that comes to the office, you keep it clean! A 1.25 gpm shower head and 1.5 gpm sink aerator rounded out our effort.

It was easy to replace the light bulbs with CFLs and LEDs. The $3600 pellet stove was more of an investment but it's renewable because the pellets are made of sawdust and would decay and release its carbon anyway. An Energy Star Cannon copier and our Mac computers, which went Energy Star years ago, gave us 91% Energy Star plug loads. We used over 75% occupancy sensors with daylight cut offs.

The project included 100% reused furniture, 100% existing interior walls and new carpet squares from a salvage center. Diverting the 11 lbs. of carpet scraps from a landfill was very hard. To be recycled, the carpet squares needed to have their layers shaved off in stages to properly recover the different materials. They were shipped to Tacoma, WA!

Indoor air quality improved with a MERV 13 air filter, a CO2 sensor, low-VOC shellac to paint the FSC plywood sink cover and walk off mats keep dirt from ever entering the office.

ABOUT LOHRE & ASSOC. & GREEN CINCINNATI EDUCATION ADVOCACY

The company's goal is to help promote Green Building and provide the public with the resources needed to advocate for the USGBC LEED Certification process. Through our LEED documentation, seminars, tours, classes and one-on-one mentoring - green thinkers, designers, visionaries, activists, home owners, educators, students, contractors and suppliers are encouraged to learn more about the USGBC and practices in designing and constructing energy efficient and sustainable structures for the benefit of their family and the world.

"My love of architecture moved me to purchase a 1956 FLW home in 2003. My search for the progress of his Organic Architecture led me to the U.S. Green Building Council and truly modern sustainable architecture and how it means renovating a 160 year old office in historic downtown Cincinnati."
